DEAR STUDENTS!

We all are currently operating in extreme conditions. Teachers of the department clearly understand how hard it is for you now. We look forward to mutual understanding. We are sure that you also realize how difficult it is for the department staff.

No matter how difficult the conditions for passing exams this academic year are, we, teachers and students, don't have the opportunity to profane this process, and therefore study as a whole.

The technical requirements set by the department are feasible. You know the exam schedule. If someone doesn't have a personal computer, it is easy to agree with fellow students to borrow it on the day of your exam.

In any case we will return to the traditional, full-time education in the future. Everyone will have several more opportunities to pass the physiology exam in the audience, in the form that has always existed.
